PLAYGROUNDS DEDICATION IS FEATURE OF FOURTH

Patriotism Exhibited in the Opening of Institution

LOCAL CITIZENS SPEAK

Hundreds Come From Vicinity Compose Audience-- Lawn Fete as Benefit

Never in the history of Charleroi was there a more picturesque or truly patriotic celebration than that carried on July Fourth evening when the Charleroi Playgrounds, the first to be instituted in Washington county were formally opened. Attended by people from all parts of Charleroi and from other towns, the celebration was made the occasion of joy making in a telling way. Commencing with a parade over the streets of Charleroi the celebration was carired on until about midnight. J. D. Beryman made the dedication address.

In the parade the main bodies were the Charleroi Presbyterian Boy's Brigade and the Italian band. Marching over the principal streets of town they wended their way to "The Pines" where already a big crowd of citizens and women and children had gathered There a speaker's stand had been erected.

John B. Schafer was chairman of the meeting. With a few brief words in which he outlined the playgrounds work he introduced John D. Berryman. Mr. Beryman made a neat speech. Rev. W. D. Fries, pastor of St. Jerome's Catholic church followed and spoke of the playgrounds movement and of the good it does. Rev. F. A. Richards, pastor of the M. E. church made a patriotic address. Capt J. K. Hein, president of council, spoke of the civic benefit to be derived from the playgrounds.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Miss Hazel Ream. Miss Emma Clutter sang "Tenting Tonight," and the chorus of the song was rendered by a number of children under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel. The Boy's Brigade in encampmen' nearby gave a realistic appearance to the patriotic song.

During the evening a lawn fete and social was held. Hundreds visited the grounds. A snug sum was realized to be used in the interests of the playgrounds. Prof. W. A. Swick had general charge of the opening.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS FESTIVAL

The festival held at Ebenezer M. E. church in Fallowfield township Friday and Saturday evenings of last week was a highly successful affair, fully 500 people being in attendance. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Sunday school, which is one of the first of the denomination organized west of the Allegheny mountains. The school was organized previous to 1825 by Fisher White at the Jackman school house located on the farm now occupied by J. J. Chester. The school house was a primitive affair, furnished with puncheon seats.

Prof. Willard To Quit Work

Tenders Resignation as Principal of the Charleroi High School

Word has been received by members of the Charleroi School board from Prof. D. C. Willard, last year's High School principal, to the effect that his resignation has been sent to the secretary as principal for the coming term. Prof Willard states that he has ben elected principal of the New Bloomfield Academy.

It is expected that the resignation will be taken up and acted upon Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the directors. Prof. W. A. Swick and Miss Mary Walters are the other members of the High School faculty and it is but improbable that one of them will be elected the principal. At the time of the election of the High School teachers there were a number of applicants for positions and one of these may be elected to occupy the vacancy made by the resignation of Prof Willard.

MONESSEN OBSERVES FOURTH

Big Celebratiou at Steel Town on Independance Day

Monessen celebrated the Fourth of July by a monster demonstration. With a big parade in the morning speaking by Congressman Victor Murdoch and others, and a number of athletic events in the afternoon and a pyrotechnic display in the evening a big crowd was attracted to the place

Business men, marching, and with floats, foreign delegations, and military companies, the Brownsville Light Infantry, the Charleroi Brigade and the Belle Vernon Rifles, composed the parade.

Congressman Murdoch made a splendid address which was listened to by a great number of people. His talk was purely of the Independence day sentiment.

In the sporting events athletics from all ayong the valley participated and good time was made. Paul Nutt of Charleroi, took third in the 100-yard dash, and Earl McGuire second in the five mile run.

Orders for Shade Trees.

All orders for shade trees for lawn and street purposes ordered by the borough, must be left with the borough clerk not later than July 15. Trees will be furnished at the following prices: Norway maples, 6 to 8 feet, 55 cents each delivered; 8 to 10 feet, 65 cents delivered. 278-2t

THREE ORDINANCES ARE FINALLY PASSED BY BOROUGH COUNCIL

Seventh and Eighth Streets to be Paved Between Fallowfield and Washington Avenues This Summer

Three ordinances were finally passed by council at their regular meeting on Monday night. Two were paving ordinances, one for the paving of Eighth street and the other for the paving of Seventh street between Fallowfield and Washington avenues The other ordinance was one regulating the running at large of vicious and troublesome dogs, and providing for notice to the owners or harborors and penalty for failure to impound, put and keep under leash dogs complained of. All the ordinances have been signed by Burgess George W. R. Risbeck.

It was decided to have Blythe alley sewered between Third and Fourth streets. Various reports of officials were received. A number of bills were ordered paid.

Action was taken to the effect that the tax collector be notified to collect all taxes on the 1909 duplicate. The street committee is to investigate the matter of having a pump removed at the corner of Ninth street and Washington avenue.

President J. K. Hein was in the chair, and Councilmen present were C. O. Frye, Dr. A. O. Davis, W. R. Gaut, Oscar C. Linn and W. H. Calvert.

SMALL CHILD BADLY BURNED

Daughter of Bert McClay, at Fayette City Injured on Fourth

Letitia, the 4-year-old daughter of Bert McClay, manager of the provision department of the Valley Supply Company's store at Fayette City was seriously if not fatally burned while firing shooting crackers on the lawn of her home. Letitia with three other children was playing when a match ignited her clothing and in a second her skirts were a mass of flames. She ran screaming through the yard her cries bringing McClay as well as several neighbors to her rescue. The father threw his daughter to the ground and rolling her and fighting the flames with his hands extinguishdd them, but not until he was severely burned about the hands and his daughter badly burned. Mr. McClay was a former Charleroi man and he and his family are well known here.

NEW MANAGERS FOR TWO TEAMS IN THE LEAGUE

When the Catholics appear on the field for their next game they will have a new manager in the person of John Rickey, whose name was added to the list at the meeting of the Church league committee on Monday evening. Fred Kelly present manager who has been the assistant superintendent of the Plate Glass works here, has been transferred to the Ford City plant and will leave this week. The Washington Avenues have also appointed a new manager, Charles Steele in place of Bert Mitchell. Mitchell will stil play.

It was decided that the various clubs pick the umpires for the rest of the season from four whose names were sugegsted, Charles Byland, Jack Mathias, Prof I. T. Daniel and Barney O'Neil.

Names added to lists and releases approved were: Baptists, Fred Culp added, Charles Deitz released; First Presbyterians, Thomas Mangan added George Michiner released; Christians add James Buchanan and Berdel Clutter, release Huett and Fletcher; Washington Avenues add Charles Steele, release Hess.

DIGGER STANLEY WINS IN OHIO

At the Olympia Club in Cleveland Tuesday night before a crowded house Digger Stanley of Charleroi was awarded the decision over Biz Mackey of Akron at the end of an eight-round bout. The bout was featured by some exciting milling which kept the fans guessing as to the winner until the final round. Digger wired friends in Charleroi that he was not much bruised, but that he broke his left hand in the fight. He left Cleveland for home this morning.

ELDORA PARK BREAKS RECORD

Fourth of July Crowd is Hummer for Popular Pleasure Resort

In point of attendance, entertainment and a general good time all previous records were broken at Eldora Park on the Fourth. Never, since the establishment of this popular resort, was there such a turnout. From early morning until late at night crowds came and went, and the Park was the Mecca for the whole valley. Many of the towns along the river that had demonstrations of their own contributed large quotas after the local programs had been rendered, and the attractions at the park were such as to split the attendance everywhere else.

In addition to the sham battle, which was a drawing attraction, the other amusements entertained thousands. The big dancing pavilion was thronged all day and until late at night, despite the high temperature of the day. Thousands of happy picnickers sat under the trees, which afforded real shade and a delightful retreat from the heat, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the day.

The street car service to and from the park was handled most admirably by Cornelius Buchanan, local superintendent for the Pittsburg Railways company Mr. Buchannan gave his personal attention to the traffic between the park and up river points, and transported the largest crowd ever before handled on a similar occasion in safety and with more comfort than is expected in a holiday rush.

A beautiful display of fireworks at night ended the features of the day. All who visited the park found ample entertainment and enjoyment, and the management scored another triumph in providing the entertainments which attracted the large crowds.

Young Man Dies At Sanitarium

William O'Donnell Succumbs to Ravages of the Terrible White Plague

William O'Donnell, 17 years old, son of the late William D'Donnell, died at Mt. Alto sanitarium at about 10 o'clock Tuesday from tuberculosis from which he has been suffering for some time. The body was brought home the same day of his death and is now at the home, 511 McKean avenue. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning at St. Jerome's church and the body will be taken to Monongahela for interment in the Monongahela cemetery.

Two sisters survive, Misses Grace and Marguerite O'Donnell. The father died about 6 years ago and was folowed some months after by his son John. Mrs. O'Donnell, the mother of the deceased died last year.

William was a well known and estimable young man of Charleroi and popular among his acquaintances.

J. J. HOTT URGED TO MAKE RUN

Friends On River Thinks Him Logical Candidate for Sheriff

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir:—In looking over the history of the Monongahela Valley, and particularly that part from Monongahela to Brownsville, for the past 25 years, one of the most prominent names connected with its achievements in a business, social and political way is that of James J. Hott. It is a common saying, along the river whenever there is something to do, or some project for the public good, to "see Jim Hott," knowing that "Jim" as the boys call him never shirks anything.

In a business way Mr. Hott has been and is very successful, and has been honored by being elected to the highest office in Charleroi, having served a term as Burgess of Charlleroi. Mr. Hott has never allowed his name to be used for a county office, and yet at every election, primary or general, he is the most sought after man in the county. His genial personality is a power with the people and he seldom goes into a losing fight. His many friends would like him to enter the contest for sheriff, believing that he is entitled to some honor politically from the county.

There are very few of the past and present county officials who have not received willing and active support from Mr. Hott, and to honor him by electing him sheriff of the county would be a case of merit well deserved. If "Jim" Hott can be induced to allow his name to be used his many friends stand ready to assist in every honorable way to bring about his election. What do you say, Mr. Hott?

Brownsville and Belle Vernon Attack Local Force

MAY BE CALLED A DRAW

Both Sides Win Numerous Points in Fourth Affair at Eldora Park

With the Brownsville Light Infantry and the Belle Vernon Rifles composing the attacking force, and the Charleroi Brigade, together with a few members of the Monongahela Brigade and Monessen Cadets defending a fort on the east hill at Eldora Park the afternoon of the Fourth, a hot battle was waged. Col. Gustave Schaaf of Donora was the refferee of the affair and so close was the warfare and so well executed were the various attacks that he reserved his decision for a few days until he has had time to fairly consider the points.

The first intimation of war was when First Lieutenant Roberts with a scouting party encroached upon the camp of the Brownsville and Belle Vernon force. Fire was drawn and the scouting party retreated. Backing down the hill a constant fire was kept up, the Belle Vernon company following and the Brownsville company remaining on the crest of the hill to prevent reinforcements from the local army on the east hill. Meanwhile the scouting party's retreat was well covered by the force under Capt. Dale Jolliffe.

The real attack was made after the scouting party arrived in camp. Then there was rapid firing by volley and by platoon. Flanking parties were sent out by both forces. One prisoner, a sergeant, of the Brownsville company who got too far away from the line was captured by a couple of men under Sergeant Shanor Blythe.

When ammunition was exhausted the battle ended. The work of both armies was excellent. The volley firing of the Brownsville and Belle Vernon companies was of the best. Retreats were well carried out. The Brownsville and Belle Vernon force, made what is termed a normal attack. Good work was done by flankers. Capt Jolliffe was greatly facilitated in issuing his commands by the aid of two mounted orderlies, Raymond Lowstutter and Logan Wingett. Lowstutter caried a flag of truce into the enemy's party and asked for a surrender and took back the message that there would be no surernder by the attacking force.

Adjutant Fred Wright, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and Capt. Correll, of Belle Vernon commanded the Brownsville and Belle Vernon force, which numbered 90. Capt Jolliffe had his brigade reinforced by Monessen and Monongahela cadets unti his company numbered 70. In summing up the various points it might be said that honors were about even.

SAFE AND SANE.

The efforts throughout the country to make the celebration of the Fourth of July safe and sane are bearing fruit. Beginning with the creation of public sentiment against the useless slaughter caused by the indiscriminate and careless handling of dangerous explosives that the usually prohibited the balance of the year, and supplemented by wise legislation in many of the States, the fatal accidents this year have been reduced fully one-half. A Chicago newspaper which makes a specialty of compiling all the Fourth of July accidents the morning after, announces a reduction this year of more than fifty per cent of the fatalities.

This is a matter for congratulation. The saving by the prevention of the careless and reckless use of explosives not only applies to life but to property also. With the elimination of accidents and property losses, the celebration of the Fourth carries with it no regrets the day after. When it is devoted to pleasure and recreation the observance is a most enjoyable occasion, and the conservation effected by a safe and sane Fourth is a big step in advance along that line by the American people.

THE MERCHANT'S CHANCE.

With two important industries in Charleroi "down," temporarily, it is hoped, it behooves Charlerci business people to make the effort of their lives to go after all the extra and outside trade that is possible For that reason they should not "lay down" in their efforts to get their share of the clearing out after Fourth of July sales. Trade is suposed to be naturally quiet after the Fourth, but this is largely a matter of tradition. If it is dull it is because the business people so will. The progressive merchant never permits a dull season in his store. After the Fourth is the time to unload and dispose of the hold-over stock.

Pittsburg papers will be full of clearance sale advertisements, which will compete seriously with trade in this section if the merchants here do not meet the competition. These big concerns make money by disposing of all left over stock at almost any sacrifice, and the small dealer often lays the foundation for future embarrassment by not being willing to reduce staple goods which may become a drug on his hands by carrying the stock over for another season. A lot of trade can be kept at home if the local merchants will make the proper effort to hold it instead of letting it go to Pittsburg and elsewhere

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"Now is the proper time to consider the time-honored cross-roads school question for debate, 'Which causes the greatest discomfort to humanity, heat or cold?'" remarked a citizen during the present heated term. "One has only to keep tab on the daily newspapers to find a verdict in favor of the torrid condition. Already in Pitsburg there have been a dozen or more deaths from heat, but it is rare to see an account of a person frozen to death in the same community. If that many fatalities were recorded on occount of cold in Pittsburg, the whole comunity would be aroused to provide warmth and shelter for the unfortunate. When one considers the trophics—India, parts of China, Egypt, the Soudan, Arabia, Equatorial Africa and parts of South America, one can readily see that the discomfort of cold is not nearly so far reaching as that of heat."

Speaking of the scieneific study of the soil and the survey that is being made in the western part of Pennsylvania by the United States Government in conjunction with State College, John S. Rodgers, a prominent Fallowfield township farmer, gave it as his opinion that more attention should be paid to the promotion of the atmospheric action on the soil. "I have noticed," he said, "that fields where the wind sweeps over the surface produce a lot more if the wind can be broken and the surface protected, to some extent. I have also observed that the disintegration of rock caused by the chenical action of the atmosphere is a natural fertilizer. This has been demonstated time and again by grinding up certain kinds of rock and applying it to the soil. Some fields the said to leech out and destroy the fertility. This, according to my observation, is only the wash of the finely pulverized soil from the field. If this can be prevented and the natural disintegration of soil elements promoted whereever possible it will in my judgment, do a whole lot toward increasing the productiveness of the soil."

MAN AND THE WORLD.

A Very Small Graveyard Would Hold the Whole Human Family.

How little mankind signifies in the scheme of nature is shown by a rather morose calculation of the Italian Professor Zuccarini, who has figured out, among other things, that estimating the world's population as 1,500,000,000 the whole human race at present living could stand comfortably shoulder to shoulder in an area of 500 square miles.

Taking the number of generations in the past 6,000 years as 200, the room taken up by them all on the above plan would only be half the size of Germany, or for the sake of comparison less than the area of the state of Colorado To bury all the people on earth would need a graveyard little larger than that area.

If the dust left by each body be estimated at one-tenth cubic yard, which is a liberal estimate, it would cover only forty square miles to a depth of about three feet. This certainly seems insignificant compared with the great coral reefs and othe immense deposits built up by the shell of tiny infusoria.—New York Sun.

"All Things Come."

The magnate looked up impatiently from his work.

"Well, my good man," he snapped at the diffident rural person who stood twirling his rusty hat, "what can I do for you?"

"I guess ye don't remember me, Hank," faltered the caller. "But you an' me use ter go swimmin' together in th' ol' town. Then you got a job in th' bank, an' I got a job in th' grocery store."

"This is all very interesting, and I seem to remember your face. But come to the point—my time is valuable."

"Yes, Hank. You got a better offer and left the old village. I stayed plugging along in th' grocery store."

"Well, well?"

"Well, Hank, when you left you owed $73.62 on a grocery bill. Here's where you pay up!"—Cleveland Leader.

Presistant Advertising Brings Business Success

If the money that is spent every year by "occasional" advertisers were aded up it would be found to amount to a large sum. By "occasional" advertising I mean the using of space at irregular periods in your newspaper. Local publicity is often done this way under the excuse of helping the paper, but the real reason, if the advertiser could be got to admit it, is that he is half-hearted about the mater. He partly looks upon advertising as a luxury anyhow, and so curtails his expenditure on it to the lowest limit.

Although the retailer may regard publicity as a luxury, it yet seems to be a dream on his part that one day he will make some real success and a handsome fortune through advertising Indeed, down deep in all retailer's hearts is a feeling that money can positively be made through advertising. They know that huge fortunes have been and are being piled up by retail merchants with the aid of this limitless force, and they have secret hopes that one day they also may strike the royal road to success. If they but knew it that road lies straight and plain before every retailer in the country if he would only open his eyes to see it.

John Wanamaker, the great New York and Philadelphia retail merchant on one occasion said: "Adevertising doesn't jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It is likened to a team pulling a heavy load. A thousand spasmodic, jerky pulls will not budge that load, while one-half the force in steady effort will start and keep it moving."

Here is the solution in a nut-shell—steady effort. The advertiser "occasionally" is simply wasting his efforts. It is the steady pounding—and pounding again—that makes success in advertising as in everything else. All advertising is good in proportionate degree to how it is done, and even occasional advertising has some value, but to be successful to the point of permanenaly increasing your bank account, it must be done persistently and systematically.

What wounld you say about a clerk in your store who waited on your customers for a day or two and then sat down to rest for a few more days, leaving the customers to attend to themselves? You know how long your business would last under such conditions. It is the same with newspaper advertising. Publicity in your newspaper is simply salesmanship on paper, and the same rules apply to it as apply to salesmanship in your store Continuous effort and eternal polishing up of ideas and methods are necessary to make success either as a personal salesman in your store or as a salesman in your newspaper.

You advertise to sell your goods and keep your name in front of the people. It is only reasonable to suppose that you will be better able to do this with persistent effort than with spasmodic attempts. If you were to tell a man or woman daily about the quality and prices of your wares you would produce more effort than if your were to talk to him or her at uncertain intervals.

The question of changing the salesmanship or "copy" in your advertising space is an important one. It acts this way. Suppose you had a pile of some special goods for sale. Suppose you were determined to sell some of those goods to some particular customer. After you had asked that customer to buy those goods would you, the next time you approached her use exactly the same language and arguments? You know you would not. You would hunt up new ideas to attract her atention, new ways of convincing her tnr new methods to get her to buy. You must apply the same principals to your advertising. You must be continually hunting up ideas, new arguments and new ways of attracting and holding attention. Salesmanship in newspaper space is just the same as salesmanship behind your counter.

The trouble the ordinary storekeeper is up against is securing this salesmanship on paper I have outlined. He can purchase advertising space readily enough, space for a long enough period to make a successful display, he has done all that the successful merchant can do in that respect. But when it comes to filing the space the question assumes a different shape.

Advertisement constructing is a profession like medicine or law. When your business wants toning up, why should you not go to a business doctor?—an advertising expert? There are on the market a number of what are called Syndicate Advertising Services These can be obtained for as low as one dollar per week. They give you precisely the same service as is given to department stores and national advertising by first-class individual advertising managers. These services are usually supplied in a series of fifty-two advertisements, one for each week in the year, together with fifty-two copperplate cuts of high grade illustrations drawn by high salaried artists The advertisements are constructed by writers of national reputation and with great experience men who have made success for thousands of other retailers in the same position as yourself. The low price charged for these advertisements is only made possible because of thousands of the same advertisement that are sold to different merchants throughout the country. One merchant only in each town is allowed to use the service for his own trade.

Particulars of the best of these syndicated advertising services may be had from the editor of this journal and I earnestly advise you, as an up-to-date merchant, to get them at once. "The early bird catches the worm" is a true saying and it is nowhere better exemplified than in this case; the retailer who uses a service of this kind here now will start himself on a near cut to independence and fortune.

A Game of Catch.

Somebody once twitted John Graham on the way David Dudley Field and he were drifting apart, he remaining in the harness as a criminal lawyer, while Field was selected by his state for the exalted duty of codifying her laws.

"It is simply a game of catch between Field and myself," he answered. "He tries to put up as many bars as possible, all uniformly strong. Then I go around and try them and see how many weak ones I can find."

"Which beats, Mr. Graham?" he was asked.

"Oh, I think I do in the long run," he responded. "Field never succeeded in keeping me out as many times as I have succeeded in breaking in."

Care With Mushrooms.

It is not generally known that mushrooms on account of the amount of nitrogen they contain approach nearer to animal food than many other vegetable products. An analysis made by Professor Attwood shows that mushrooms contain 3.5 per cent proteids, boiled potatoes 2.5 and onions 1.6. Experts say that mushrooms should be eaten perfectly fresh and never eaten after repeating or being "warmed over." One of the extensive mushroom farmers in England says that persons subject to rheumatic and gouty attacks should abstain from mushrooms and that liquor should not be drunk at a meal where mushrooms are served.—New York World.

FENNEL.

It Is to the Italians Somewhat as Celery Is to Us.

"'Tisn't often that an Italian table d'hote furnishes anything that takes me back to my grandmother's time," said a New York man, "but that was my experience last night. The first nibble of something I'd supposed was celery sent my mind wandering back fifty years to an old New England village.

"'Fennel?' I asked the Italian waiter. He nodded and said and gave me the Italian form of the word, which I carefully wrote down on a scrap of paper, 'Finocchi.' I suppose it showed my ignorance, but never before did I know that fennel is to the Italians what celery is to us. Evidently the large leaves of the leafstalks are bleached in similar fashion, and from the way it was served I could see it was intended to be dipped in salt, as we eat celery. My obliging waiter told me that it was delicious as a salad and when boiled and served with cream sauce it made a popular Italian dish.

"But after all what did those culinary details matter? What really counted was that strange, penetrating flavor which took me back to my childhood. As I thoughtfully nibbled my fennel stalks the last fifty years seemed a blank. I was a child again, picking big clusters of yellow, aromatic fennel seeds in my grandmother's garden."—New York Sun

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll l'arn ye to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the end, of it.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs in the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands in Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two other cliffs in the same chain are called the "snorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind; hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical sounds of nature confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand, produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back, dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

Anecdotes of Richter.

Dr. Richter will forgive us, we are sure, for telling two rehearsal stories about him. Madam X. was singing at a rehearsal and was decidedly out of tune. Dr. Richter stood it as long as he could, then turned to her, "Madam," he said, "will you kindly give the orchestra your A?"

At another rehearsal one of the instrumentalists made a mistake. "No," said Dr. Richter; "it goes so (humming)—rum-tum-tarum!" The same player made another mistake. "No, no—rum-tum-tarum!" At the third mistake Dr. Richter momentarily lost patience and cried, "Why do you make so many mistakes, Mr. —?" Then quickly recovering his habitual good humor, "Ah, I know why it is—you like to hear me sing!"—Manchester Guardian.

The Old Sod.

At the breaking of ground for one of the new buildings for the Catholic university at Washington the late Archbishop Ryan was present, and Cardinal Gibbons was officiating. The cardinal turned over a large piece of grass covered earth when it was discovered that there had been a hitch in the ceremony.

"Well," said the cardinal, "I suppose that we will have to dig another sod."

"Oh, no, no!" said Archbishop Ryan. "Never go back on the old sod!"—Philadelphia Times.

Smoothing Trouble at Sea.

"Once, crossing the Atlantic," said an old traveler, "a tremendous row arose among the sailors. They fought down in the forecastle like a pack of wild beasts. Luncheon was going on at the time, and the first officer left the table to see if he could quell the disturbance.

"He had only been gone a little while when the mighty hubbub began to die down. Everything was quiet when he returned. The captain called across the saloon to him in an approving tone:

"'Things seem to be somewhat smoother now.'

"'Yes,' returned the first officer; 'we have ironed the sailors, sir.'"

Drilled to Perfection.

From drill man gets accustomed to doing under any circumstances what has been hammered into his brain time after time till it becomes second nature to him. Charles XII. of Sweden, "the madman of the north," ripped most of Europe up the back again and again because his soldiers were drilled to perfection before he let them take the field at a time when there was great neglect of drill in other armies. He valued 1,000 well drilled fighters above 10,000 not so well drilled, and, madman or genius, his judgment was vindicated repeatedly in terrible battles. One night Charles XII. was surprised in Poland by an attacking army of 8,000 when his scant force of 600 was sleeping like the dead from the exhaustion of a hard march. Before his outposts and sentinels could be driven in his small band was aroused, mounted, formed in battle line—all in pitchy blackness—and swinging into a fierce charge upon the enemy. By daylight the Russians and Poles, who had thought to eat him up, were virtually annihilated.—New York Press.

Dr. Johnson's Revenge.

Tom Osborne, the bookseller, was one of "that mercantile rugged race to which the delicacy of the poet is sometimes exposed."

Osborne, irritated by what he thought an unnecessary delay on the part of Johnson, went one day into the room where Johnson was sitting and abused him in the most liberal manner. Johnson heard him some time unmoved, but at last, losing all patience, he seized a huge folio and, aiming a blow at the bookseller's head, succeeded in sending him sprawling to the floor. Osborne alarmed the family by his cries, but Johnson, placing his foot on his breast, would not let him stir until he had exposed him in that situation and then left him with this triumphant expression: "Lie there, thou son of dullness, ignorance and obscurity."—From Kearsley's "Anecdotes."

Money Panic.

"What was the worst money panic you ever saw?" asked one financier of another.

"The worst money panic I ever saw," was the reply, "was when a fifty cent piece rolled under the seat of a street car and seven different women claimed it."—Exchange.

Tyranny.

There are few minds to which tyranny is not delightful. Power is nothing but as it is felt, and the delight of superiority is proportionate to the resistance overcome.—Johnson.

A MIGHTY REMEDY

Cures Backache, Sideache, and all Kidney, Liver and Bladder Diseases, or Money Back.

Yes money back; that's the offer that W. F. Hennings' the agent in Charleroi makes if Thompson's Barosma fails to cure any of the above named diseases.

And when you stop to think, that's a wonderfully generous offer from the viewpoint of the afflicted, the sick and the suffering.

So if you are ill, have the blues, have lost ambition, have backache or pains in your side, if your urine is high colored, and your eyes dull and complexion sallow, the chances are that your kidneys are weak and clogged up, and that your blood is full of impurities.

So why wait when Thompson's Barosma is guaranteed to restore your health. Get a bottle today at W. F. Hennings'. There are two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00.

Five years ago Charles Schultz of Dunkirk, N. Y. was so weak and run down that he decided to give up his business. He took Barosma, and in a few months he regained his health gained 55 pounds in weight. Today he writes: "I have been in perfect health ever since I wrote you five years ago." All druggists.

ORDINANCE NO. 227.

An Ordinance Regulating the Running at Large of Vicious and Troublesome Dogs, Providing for Notice to the Owners or Harborers Thereof and Penalty for Failure to Impound, Put and Keep Under Leash Dogs Complained of.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Charleroi, Washington County, Pennsylvania, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same:

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to permit the running at large, in the Borough of Charleroi, any dog; (1) owned or harbored by them, of known vicious habits or which shall be known to bite, run or bark at pedestrians, horses, carriages, street cars, automobiles, bicycles or other persons, animals or vehicles, using the public footways or highways; (2) which shall be known to injure property or trouble and annoy persons by upsetting garbage cans or otherwise.

Sec. 2. If any person shall make complaint to the Chief Burgess of the Borough that any person, firm or corporation, permits to run at large any dog, owned or harbored by them, which is prohibited to run at large in Section One of this ordinance, the said Burgess, upon being satisfied that the complaint is well founded, shall give notice or cause notice to be given to said person, firm or corporation, requiring that said dog be immediately impounded or put under leash. Upon failure of said person, firm or corporation to promptly impound such dog or dogs or to put the same under leash and to keep the same impounded or under leash thereafter, such person, firm or corporation shall be subject to a fine not exceeding Ten ($10.00) Dollars and not less than One ($1.00) Dollar for each offense, to be recovered as fines are by law recoverable.

Ordinance No. 213, providing for the muzzling of all dogs running at large and for the impounding and killing of all dogs not muzzled or confined as provided by said ordinance is hereby repealed.

It is hereby provided that Ordinance No. 72, relating to the licensing and muzzling of dogs, and the running at large of the same shall not be altered or affected by this ordinance, except to expressly re-enact Section Five of the same.

Hours of Rest.

One hour of rest as a rule, should be the same every night. It is not safe for even the most robust and healthy to violate the law of regularity in this matter. The man or woman who retires and rises at irregular periods, varying from two to four or six hours, as many are accustomed to do, cannot enjoy good health or live long and happily. Every one should adopt a rule to retire at a certain hour and adhere to it as strictly as possible, never deviating from it except in emergencies.

Desperate Conscripts.

Conscription is not popular in the Turkish empire. Mr. A. G. Aflaio tells in "Regilding the Crescent" how he met at the little station of Sesched, between Jerusalem and the sea, a body of ferocious looking ruffians wearing handcuffs and under a strong guard—all deserters. "Some idea of the abhorrence in which these undisciplined tribesmen hold their military obligations may be gathered when it is mentioned that several of the party had actually burned out of their own eyes with quicklime so as to render themselves useless in the field."

Finances of Heroism.

A new light on heroism is shed by Dr. Henry Rundle in his little book, "With the Red Cross In the Franco-German War." "Those soldiers," he says, "who have the good fortune to return whole and healthy are, of course, the heroes of the family. One of our patients, a young French cavalry soldier, did not wish his friends to know of his safety. He thought that if kept in suspense for some little time his family would be so overjoyed at his return that their substantial tokens of welcome would be the greater."

CATHOLICS WIN FROM EPISCOPALS IN SIX INNINGS

Jupiter Pluvius took a hand in proceedings and stopped a crackerjack of a game that was getting better right along between the Catholics and Episcopals after a part of seven innings had been played July Fourth afternoon. Reverting to the sixth inning, made necessary because the seventh was not completed, the score favored the Catholics 2 to 0 and they were declared winners.

Whe nMontgomery let Newton's tap get away from him in the fourth events started. McGuire flied out. Fagula with a mighty willow hit one for three bases scoring Newton. Then he came home on Jenkins' mistake. Mossioux pasted one on the label for two bases but it was of no use. Score:

American and German Firemen.

A Hamburg fireman of distinction who had occasion to visit the United States some years ago returned full of admiration for the splendid way in which American fire companies usually respond to alarms and was of the opinion that the American companies were ready for action more promptly than those in Germany, because the individual units subordinated everything else to the point of leaving quarters at the earliest possible instant, to do which the American fireman at night would slide down the pole partially clad and was indifferent as to his appearance in riding to the scene of the fire so long as he was on the spot to meet the emergency. The European fireman, on the other hand, having had military training, would be inclined to avoid the pole and would walk down the stairs, devoting a few seconds to the adjustment of his garments, and would be prepared to start only when ready to appear before the public in regulation costume.—Consular Reports.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it. Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m! Play cards for money?"

"Emphatically no, sir."

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

GAME FORFEITED PRESBYTERIANS BY WASHINGTONS

In a game that was forfeited before it was played because of the non-appearance of the Washington Avenues with nine eligible men, the First Presbyterians won July Fourth morning game by the score of 4 to 2 from the Washington Avenues. This they captured mainly by bunching hits in the first, second, fifth and sixth innings. The Washington Avenues by hard work got one in the first and one in the sixth inning. Score:

BASEBALL BINGLES

The distinctive feature of the morning's exhibition game was a tripple play engnieered by Mitchell, McKay, and Miller, of the Washington Avenues. Schmidt, first man up, for the First Presbyterians, was sent to first on a base on balls. Oller's sacrifice was handled cleanly by Stahlman, but Miller made a dismal muff of the play at second, the runner being safe. McGowan, in an attempt to advance the runners, popped up a little fly which Mitchell managed to get under. By a quick throw, the latter caught Oller before he could return to first, and Dr. McKay relayed the ball to Miller in ample time to head off Schmidt, who had already turned third base on the play. The tripple was certainly handled in big league style, and drew forth hearty applause.

* * *

It is understood that the Fourth afternoon game may be protested by the Episcopals. The point of argument lies in the fact that while at bat in the sixth inning Kuhn was called out for stepping out of his box while Cratty came in from third base. Cratty's score was not counted.

* * *

The Catholics had a new man on first base, McGuire, who is said to be a former player from the baseball center of Pricedale.

* * *

Dr. McKay got in the game and played first base for the Washington Avenues. The Doc used to be some player and if he can get in form will make them go some to pull anything away from him.

COLLEGIANS TO PLAY SATURDAY

Manager John McIlvaine Secured Good Baseball Team For Game Here

The Pittsburg Collegians, headed by "Dick" Guy, the popular amateur sporting editor of the Pittsburg Gazette Times will come to Charleroi Saturday afternoon, and do battle with John McIlvaine's ballers at the ball ground. To add that a good game is expected is superfluous.

The Pittsburg Collegians are composed of college and ex-college baseball stars who every summer tour the country under the tutelage of Manager Richard Guy. They have not appeared in Charleroi of recent years. The college players contain some mighty fast baseball material and the game they will put up to tetar down the colors of McIlvaine's Independents, will be worth while seeing. Dick Guy is quite well known in Charleroi.

PLAYGROUNDS DEDICATION IS FEATURE OF FOURTH

Patriotism Exhibited in the Opening of Institution

LOCAL CITIZENS SPEAK

Hundreds Come From Vicinity Compose Audience-- Lawn Fete as Benefit

Never in the history of Charleroi was there a more picturesque or truly patriotic celebration than that carried on July Fourth evening when the Charleroi Playgrounds, the first to be instituted in Washington county were formally opened. Attended by people from all parts of Charleroi and from other towns, the celebration was made the occasion of joy making in a telling way. Commencing with a parade over the streets of Charleroi the celebration was carried on until about midnight. J. D. Beryman made the dedication address.

In the parade the main bodies were the Charleroi Presbyterian Boy's Brigade and the Italian band. Marching over the principal streets of town they wended their way to "The Pines" where already a big crowd of citizens and women and children had gathered There a speaker's stand had been erected.

John B. Schafer was chairman of the meeting. With a few brief words in which he outlined the playgrounds work he introduced John D Berryman. Mr. Beryman made a neat speech. Rev W. D. Fries, pastor of St. Jerome's Catholic church followed and spoke of the playgrounds movement and of the good it does. Rev. F. A. Richards, pastor of the M. E church made a patrionic address Capt J. K. Hein, president of council, spoke of the civic benefit to be derived from the playgrounds.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by Miss Hazel Ream Miss Emma Clutter sang "Tenting Tonight," and the chorus of the song was rendered by a number of children under the direction of Prof. I T. Daniel The Boy's Brigade in encampment nearby gave a realistic appearance to the patriotic song.

During the evening a lawn fete and social was held. Hundreds visited the grounds. A snug sum was realized to be used in the interests of the playgrounds. Prof. W. A. Swick had general charge of the opening

SUNDAY SCHOOL HOLDS FESTIVAL

The festival held at Ebenezer M E. church in Fallowfield township Friday and Saturday evenings of last week was a highly successful affair, fully 500 people being in attendance. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Sunday school, which is one of the first of the denomination organized west of the Allegheny mountains. The school was organized previous to 1825 by Fisher White at the Jackman school house located on the farm now occupied by J. J. Chester. The school house was a primitive affair, furnished with puncheon seats.

Prof. Willard To Quit Work

Tenders Resignation as Principal of the Charleroi High School

Word has been received by members of the Charleroi School board from Prof. D. C. Willard, last year's High School principal, to the effect that his resignation has been sent to the secretary as principal for the coming term. Prof Willard states that he has ben elected principal of the New Bloomfield Academy.

It is expected that the resignation will be taken up and acted upon Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the directors Prof. W. A. Swick and Miss Mary Walters are the other members of the High School faculty and it is but improbable that one of them will be elected the principal. At the time of the election of the High School teachers there were a number of applicants for positions and one of these may be elected to occupy the vacancy made by the resignation of Prof Willard.

MONESSEN OBSERVES FOURTH

Big Celebratiou at Steel Town on Independance Day

Monessen celebrated the Fourth of July by a monster demonstration. With a big parade in the morning speaking by Congressman Victor Murdoch and others, and a number of athletic events in the afternoon and a pyrotechnic display in the evening a big crowd was attracted to the place

Business men, marching, and with floats, foreign delegations, and military companies, the Brownsville Light Infantry, the Charleroi Brigade and the Belle Vernon Rifles, composed the parade.

Congressman Murdoch made a splendid address which was listened to by a great number of people. His talk was purely of the Independence day sentiment.

In the sporting events athletics from all ayong the valley participated and good time was made Paul Nutt of Charleroi, took third in the 100-yard dash, and Earl McGuire second in the five mile run.

The Washington Avenues have also appointed a new manager, Charles Steele in place of Bert Mitchell. Mitchell will stil play.

It was decided that the various clubs pick the umpires for the rest of the season from four whose names were sugegsted, Charles Byland, Jack Mathias, Prof I. T. Daniel and Barney O'Neil.

Names added to lists and releases approved were: Baptists, Fred Culp added, Charles Deitz released; First Presbyterians, Thomas Mangan added George Michiner released; Christians add James Buchanan and Berdel Clutter, release Huett and Fletcher; Washington Avenues add Charles Steele, release Hess.

DIGGER STANLEY WINS IN OHIO

At the Olympia Club in Cleveland Tuesday night before a crowded house Digger Stanley of Charleroi was awarded the decision over Biz Mackey of Akron at the end of an eight-round bout. The bout was featured by some exciting milling which kept the fans guessing as to the winner until the final round. Digger wired friends in Charleroi that he was not much bruised, but that he broke his left hand in the fight. He left Cleveland for home this morning.

ELDORA PARK BREAKS RECORD

Fourth of July Crowd is Hummer for Popular Pleasure Resort

In point of attendance, entertainment and a general good time all previous records were broken at Eldora Park on the Fourth Never, since the establishment of this popular resort, was there such a turnout From early morning until late at night crowds came and went, and the Park was the Mecca for the whole valley. Many of the towns along the river that had demonstrations of their own contributed large quotas after the local programs had been rendered, and the attractions at the park were such as to split the attendance everywhere else.

In addition to the sham battle, which was a drawing attraction, the other amusements entertained thousands. The big dancing pavilion was thronged all day and until late at night, despite the high temperature of the day Thousands of happy picnickers sat under the trees, which afforded real shade and a delightful retreat from the heat, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the day.

The street car service to and from the park was handled most admirably by Cornelius Buchanan, local superintendent for the Pittsburg Railways company Mr. Buchannan gave his personal attention to the traffic between the park and up river points, and transported the largest crowd ever before handled on a similar occasion in safety and with more comfort than is expected in a holiday rush.

A beautiful display of fireworks at night ended the features of the day. All who visited the park found ample entertainment and enjoyment, and the management scored another triumph in providing the entertainments which attracted the large crowds.

J. J. HOTT URGED TO MAKE RUN

Friends On River Thinks Him Logical Candidate for Sheriff

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir:—In looking over the history of the Monongahela Valley, and particularly that part from Monongahela to Brownsville, for the past 25 years, one of the most prominent names connected with its achievements in a business, social and political way is that of James J. Hott. It is a common saying, along the river whenever there is something to do, or some project for the public good, to "see Jim Hott," knowing that "Jim" as the boys call him never shirks anything.

In a business way Mr Hott has been and is very successful, and has been honored by being elected to the highest office in Charleroi, having served a term as Burgess of Charleroi. Mr. Hott has never allowed his name to be used for a county office, and yet at every election, primary or general, he is the most sought after man in the county. His genial personality is a power with the people and he seldom goes into a losing fight. His many friends would like him to enter the contest for sheriff, believing that he is entitled to some honor politically from the county.

There are very few of the past and present county officials who have not received willing and active support from Mr. Hott, and to honor him by electing him sheriff of the county would be a case of merit well deserved. If "Jim" Hott can be induced to allow his name to be used his many friends stand ready to assist in every honorable way to bring about his election. What do you say, Mr. Hott?

Brownsville and Belle Vernon Attack Local Force

MAY BE CALLED A DRAW

Both Sides Win Numerous Points in Fourth Affair at Eldora Park

With the Brownsville Light Infantry and the Belle Vernon Rifles composing the attacking force. and the Charleroi Brigade, together with a few members of the Monongahela Brigade and Monessen Cadets defending a fort on the east hill at Eldora Park the afternoon of the Fourth, a hot battle was waged. Col. Gustave Schaaf of Donora was the refferee of the affair and so close was the warfare and so well executed were the various attacks that he reserved his decision for a few days until he has had time to fairly consider the points.

The first intimation of war was when First Lieutenant Roberts with a scouting party encroached upon the camp of the Brownsville and Belle Vernon force. Fire was drawn and the scouting party retreated. Backing down the hill a constant fire was kept up, the Belle Vernon company following and the Brownsville company remaining on the crest of the hill to prevent reinforcements from the local army on the east hill. Meanwhile the scouting party's retreat was well covered by the force under Capt. Dale Jolliffe.

The real attack was made after the scouting party arrived in camp. Then there was rapid firing by volley and by platoon. Flanking parties were sent out by both forces. One prisoner, a sergeant, of the Brownsville company who got too far away from the line was captured by a couple of men under Sergeant Shanor Blythe.

When ammunition was exhausted the battle ended. The work of both armies was excellent The volley firing of the Brownsville and Belle Vernon companies was of the best. Retreats were well carried out. The Brownsville and Belle Vernon force made what is termed a normal attack. Good work was done by flankers. Capt Jolliffe was greatly facilitated in issuing his commands by the aid of two mounted orderlies, Raymond Lowstutter and Logan Wingett. Lowstutter carried a flag of truce into the enemy's party and asked for a surrender and took back the message that there would be no surrender by the attacking force.

Adjutant Fred Wright, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and Capt. Correll, of Belle Vernon commanded the Brownsville and Belle Vernon force, which numbered 90. Capt Jolliffe had his brigade reinforced by Monessen and Monongahela cadets unti his company numbered 76. In summing up the various points it might be said that honors were about even.

SAFE AND SANE.

The efforts throughout the country to make the celebration of the Fourth of July safe and sane are bearing fruit. Beginning with the creation of public sentiment against the useless slaughter caused by the indiscriminate and careless handling of dangerous explosives that the usually prohibited the balance of the year, and supplemented by wise legislation in many of the States, the fatal accidents this year have been reduced fully one-half. A Chicago newspaper which makes a specialty of compiling all the Fourth of July accidents the morning after, announces a reduction this year of more than fifty per cent of the fatalities.

This is a matter for congratulation. The saving by the prevention of the careless and reckless use of explosives not only applies to life but to property also. With the elimination of accidents and property losses, the celebration of the Fourth carries with it no regrets the day after. When it is devoted to pleasure and recreation the observance is a most enjoyable occasion, and the conservation effected by a safe and sane Fourth is a big step in advance along that line by the American people.

THE MERCHANT'S CHANCE.

With two important industries in Charleroi "down," temporarily, it is hoped, it behooves Charleroi business people to make the effort of their lives to go after all the extra and outside trade that is possible For that reason they should not "lay down" in their efforts to get their share of the clearing out after Fourth of July sales. Trade is supposed to be naturally quiet after the Fourth, but this is largely a matter of tradition. If it is dull it is because the business people so will. The progressive merchant never permits a dull season in his store. After the Fourth is the time to unload and dispose of the hold-over stock.

Pittsburg papers will be full of clearance sale advertisements, which will compete seriously with trade in this section if the merchants here do not meet the competition These big concerns make money by disposing of all left over stock at almost any sacrifice, and the small dealer often lays the foundation for future embarrassment by not being willing to reduce staple goods which may become a drug on his hands by carrying the stock over for another season. A lot of trade can be kept at home if the local merchants will make the proper effort to hold it instead of letting it go to Pittsburg and elsewhere

"Now is the proper time to consider the time-honored cross-roads school question for debate, 'Which causes the greatest discomfort to humanity, heat or cold?'" remarked a citizen during the present heated term. "One has only to keep tab on the daily newspapers to find a verdict in favor of the torrid condition. Already in Pitsburg there have been a dozen or more deaths from heat, but it is rare to see an account of a person frozen to death in the same community. If that many fatalities were recorded on account of cold in Pittsburg, the whole community would be aroused to provide warmth and shelter for the unfortunate. When one considers the trophies—India, parts of China, Egypt, the Soudan, Arabia, Equatorial Africa and parts of South America, one can readily see that the discomfort of cold is not nearly so far reaching as that of heat."

Speaking of the scieneific study of the soil and the survey that is being made in the western part of Pennsylvania by the United States Government in conjunction with State College. John S. Rodgers, a prominent Fallowfield township farmer, gave it as his opinion that more attention should be paid to the promotion of the atmospheric action on the soil. "I have noticed," he said, "that fields where the wind sweeps over the surface produce a lot more if the wind can be broken and the surface protected, to some extent. I have also observed that the disintegration of rock caused by the chenical action of the atmosphere is a natural fertilizer. This has been demonstated time and again by grinding up certain kinds of rock and applying it to the soil. Some fields the said to leech out and destroy the fertility. This, according to my observation, is only the wash of the finely pulverized soil from the field. If this can be prevented and the natural disintegration of soil elements promoted whereever possible it will in my judgment, do a whole lot toward increasing the productiveness of the soil."

MAN AND THE WORLD.

A Very Small Graveyard Would Hold the Whole Human Family.

How little mankind signifies in the scheme of nature is shown by a rather morose calculation of the Italian Professor Zuccarini, who has figured out, among other things, that estimating the world's population as 1,500,000,000 the whole human race at present living could stand comfortably shoulder to shoulder in an area of 500 square miles

Taking the number of generations in the past 6,000 years as 200, the room taken up by them all on the above plan would only be half the size of Germany or for the sake of comparison less than the area of the state of Colorado To bury all the people on earth would need a graveyard little larger than that area.

If the dust left by each body be estimated at one-tenth cubic yard, which is a liberal estimate, it would cover only forty square miles to a depth of about three feet. This certainly seems insignificant compared with the great coral reefs and othe immense deposits built up by the shell of tiny infusoria.—New York Sun.

"All Things Come."

The magnate looked up impatiently from his work.

"Well, my good man," he snapped at the diffident rural person who stood twirling his rusty hat, "what can I do for you?"

"I guess ye don't remember me, Hank," faltered the caller "But you an' me use ter go swimmin' together in th' ol' town. Then you got a job in th' bank, an' I got a job in th' grocery store"

"This is all very interesting, and I seem to remember your face. But come to the point—my time is valuable."

"Yes, Hank. You got a better offer and left the old village. I stayed plug ging along in th' grocery store."

"Well, well?"

"Well, Hank, when you left you owed $73.62 on a grocery bill. Here's where you pay up!"—Cleveland Leader.

BLOCKADED

Every Household in Charleroi Should Know How to Resist it.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.

Help the kidneys with their work.

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Charleroi.

Mrs William Stopp, 214 Second St., Charleroi, Pa., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and consider them unequaled for kidney diseases. I suffered for some time from backache and was also subject to headaches and dizzy spells. The kidney secretions were scanty and often contained sediment Doans Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention and procuring a box at Piper Bros.' Drug Store I began their use. They benefitted me greatly and I have since kept a supply on hand."

Business Building

By DUNDAS HENDERSON

Advertising Manager of the C. E. Zimmerman Co., Chicago.

Presistant Advertising Brings Business Success

If the money that is spent every year by "occasional" advertisers were aded up it would be found to amount to a large sum. By "occasional" advertising I mean the using of space at irregular periods in your newspaper. Local publicity is often done this way under the excuse of helping the paper, but the real reason, if the advertiser could be got to admit it, is that he is half-hearted about the mater. He partly looks upon advertising as a luxury anyhow, and so curtails his expenditure on it to the lowest limit.

Although the retailer may regard publicity as a luxury, it yet seems to be a dream on his part that one day he will make some real success and a handsome fortune through advertising Indeed, down deep in all retailer's hearts is a feeling that money can positively be made through advertising. They know that huge fortunes have been and are being piled up by retail merchants with the aid of this limitless force, and they have secret hopes that one day they also may strike the royal road to success. If they but knew it that road lies straight and plain before every retailer in the country if he would only open his eyes to see it.

John Wanamaker, the great New York and Philadelphia retail merchant on one occasion said: "Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It is likened to a team pulling a heavy load. A thousand spasmodic, jerky pulls will not budge that load, while one-half the force in steady effort will start and keep it moving."

Here is the solution in a nut-shell—steady effort. The advertiser "occasionally" is simply wasting his efforts. It is the steady pounding—and pounding again—that makes success in advertising as in everything else. All advertising is good in proportionate degree to how it is done, and even occasional advertising has some value, but to be successful to the point of permanenaly increasing your bank account, it must be done persistently and systematically.

What wounld you say about a clerk in your store who waited on your customers for a day or two and then sat down to rest for a few more days, leaving the customers to attend to themselves? You know how long your business would last under such conditions. It is the same with newspaper advertising. Publicity in your newspaper is simply salesmanship on paper, and the same rules apply to it as apply to salesmanship in your store Continuous effort and eternal polishing up of ideas and methods are necessary to make success either as a personal salesman in your store or as a salesman in your newspaper.

You advertise to sell your goods and keep your name in front of the people. It is only reasonable to suppose that you will be better able to do this with persistent effort than with spasmodic attempts. If you were to tell a man or woman daily about the quality and prices of your wares you would produce more effort than if your were to talk to him or her at uncertain intervals.

The question of changing the salesmanship or "copy" in your advertising space is an important one. It goes this way. Suppose you had a pile of some special goods for sale. Suppose you were determined to sell some of those goods to some particular customer. After you had asked that customer to buy those goods would you, the next time you approached her use exactly the same language and arguments? You know you would not. You would hunt up new ideas to attract her atention, new ways of convincing her the new methods to get her to buy. You must apply the same principals to your advertising. You must be continually hunting up ideas, new arguments and new ways of attracting and holding attention. Salesmanship in newspaper space is just the same as salesmanship behind your counter.

The trouble the ordinary storekeeper is up against is securing this salesmanship on paper I have outlined. He can purchase advertising space readily enough, space for a long enough period to make a successful display, he has done all that the successful merchant can do in that respect. But when it comes to filing the space the question assumes a different shape.

Advertisement constructing is a profession like medicine or law. When your business wants toning up, why should you not go to a business doctor?—an advertising expert? There are on the market a number of what are called Syndicate Advertising Services These can be obtained for as low as one dollar per week. They give you precisely the same service as is given to department stores and national advertising by first-class individual advertising managers. These services are usually supplied in a series of fifty-two advertisements, one for each week in the year, together with fifty-two copperplate cuts of high grade illustrations drawn by high salaried artists The advertisements are constructed by writers of national reputation and with great experience men who have made success for thousands of other retailers in the same position as yourself. The low price charged for these advertisements is only made possible because of thousands of the same advertisement that are sold to different merchants throughout the country. One merchant only in each town is allowed to use the service for his own trade.

Particulars of the best of these syndicated advertising services may be had from the editor of this journal and I earnestly advise you, as an up-to-date merchant, to get them at once. "The early bird catches the worm" is a true saying and it is nowhere better exemplified than in this case; the retailer who uses a service of this kind here now will start himself on a near cut to independence and fortune.

A Game of Catch.

Somebody once twitted John Graham on the way David Dudley Field and he were drifting apart, he remaining in the harness as a criminal lawyer, while Field was selected by his state for the exalted duty of codifying her laws.

"It is simply a game of catch between Field and myself," he answered. "He tries to put up as many bars as possible, all uniformly strong. Then I go around and try them and see how many weak ones I can find."

"Which beats, Mr. Graham?" he was asked.

"Oh, I think I do in the long run," he responded. "Field never succeeded in keeping me out as many times as I have succeeded in breaking in."

Care With Mushrooms.

It is not generally known that mushrooms on account of the amount of nitrogen they contain approach nearer to animal food than many other vegetable products. An analysis made by Professor Attwood shows that mushrooms contain 3.5 per cent proteids, boiled potatoes 2.5 and onions 1.6. Experts say that mushrooms should be eaten perfectly fresh and never eaten after repeating or being "warmed over." One of the extensive mushroom farmers in England says that persons subject to rheumatic and gouty attacks should abstain from mushrooms and that liquor should not be drunk at a meal where mushrooms are served.—New York World.

FENNEL.

It Is to the Italians Somewhat as Celery Is to Us.

"'Tisn't often that an Italian table d'hote [illegible] me back to my grandmother's time," said a New Yorker, "but that was my experience last night. The first nibble of something I supposed was celery sent my mind wandering back fifty years to an old New England village.

"I ordered finocchi, which I knew to be fennel, as the Italians who serve it to us. Evidently the large stalks are bleached in some fashion, and from the way it was served I could see it was intended to be dipped in salt, as we eat celery. My obliging waiter told me that it was delicious as a salad and when boiled and served with cream sauce it made a popular Italian dish.

"But after all what did those culinary details matter? What really counted was that strange, penetrating flavor which [illegible] to my childhood. As I thoughtfully nibbled my fennel stalks the last fifty years seemed a blank. I was a child again, picking big clusters of yellow, aromatic fennel seeds in my grandmother's garden."—New York Sun.

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soused him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another souse) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll larn ye to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many [illegible] for its fame as a "stumper" at last reached the great cradle which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the end of it.

MUSICAL MOUNTAINS.

Singing Cliffs in the Pyrenees and Roaring Sands in Hawaii.

In certain parts of the world are mountains and hills which are said by the natives to sing. In the Pyrenees certain cliffs emit plaintive sounds resembling the strains of a harp. Two other cliffs in the same chain are called the "snorers." When the wind is in the southwest they send forth a peculiar sound not altogether musical. The faces of these cliffs are marked by deep gullies, open in front, which may be compared to the pipes of an organ. At certain times a stratum of air, held between the cliffs and bordering trees, closes the openings while the wind blows freely between through the gullies, or organ pipes, behind, hence the music that is heard.

At the confluence of the Orinoco and the Rio Meta are granite cliffs which sing at sunrise. Humboldt refers to the phenomenon as the musical stones of the Orinoco. The music is caused by the rush of the expanding air through fissures partly closed by mica.

Many more examples might be cited to show that nature makes use of principles which have been adopted by man in the creation of musical sounds. Nor are the musical sounds of nature confined to rocks, mountains and hills, for in Hawaii is a sand bank fifty feet high which, when the hand is moved about in the loose sand produces a sound like that of a melodeon. It is said that if the observer slides down the bank on his back dragging both hands in the sand, the sound becomes as loud as faint thunder.—Harper's Weekly.

Anecdotes of Richter.

Dr. Richter will forgive us, we are sure, for telling two rehearsal stories about him. Madam X was singing at a rehearsal and was decidedly out of tune. Dr. Richter stood it as long as he could, then turned to her. "Madam," he said, "will you kindly give the orchestra your A?"

At another rehearsal one of the instrumentalists made a mistake. "No," said Dr. Richter, "it goes so (humming)—rum-tum-tarum!" The same player made another mistake. "No, no—rum-tum-tarum!" At the third mistake Dr. Richter momentarily lost patience and cried, "Why do you make so many mistakes, Mr. —?" Then quickly recovering his habitual good humor, "Ah, I know why it is—you like to hear me sing!"—Manchester Guardian.

The Old Sod.

At the breaking of ground for one of the new buildings for the Catholic university at Washington the late Archbishop Ryan was present, and Cardinal Gibbons was officiating. The cardinal turned over a large piece of grass covered earth when it was discovered that there had been a hitch in the ceremony.

"Well," said the cardinal, "I suppose that we will have to dig another sod."

"Oh, no, no!" said Archbishop Ryan. "Never go back on the old sod!"—Philadelphia Times.

Smoothing Trouble at Sea.

"Once, crossing the Atlantic," said an old traveler, "a tremendous row arose among the sailors. They fought down in the forecastle like a pack of wild beasts. Luncheon was going on at the time and the first officer left the table to see if he could quell the disturbance.

"He had only been gone a little while when the mighty hubbub began to die down. Everything was quiet when he returned. The captain called across the saloon to him in an approving tone:

"'Things seem to be somewhat smoother now.'

"'Yes,' returned the first officer; 'we have ironed the sailors, sir.'"

Drilled to Perfection.

From drill man gets accustomed to doing under any circumstances what has been hammered into his brain time after time till it becomes second nature to him. Charles XII. of Sweden, "the madman of the north," ripped most of Europe up the back again and again because his soldiers were drilled to perfection before he let them take the field at a time when there was great neglect of drill in other armies. He valued 1,000 well drilled fighters above 10,000 not so well drilled, and, madman or genius, his judgment was vindicated repeatedly in terrible battles. One night Charles XII. was surprised in Poland by an attacking army of 8,000 when his scant force of 600 was sleeping like the dead from the exhaustion of a hard march. Before his outposts and sentinels could be driven in his small band was aroused, mounted, formed in battle line—all in pitchy blackness—and swinging into a fierce charge upon the enemy. By daylight the Russians and Poles, who had thought to eat him up, were virtually annihilated.—New York Press.

Dr. Johnson's Revenge.

[illegible] one of "that mercantile rugged race to which the delicacy of the poet is sometimes exposed."

Osborne, irritated by what he thought an unnecessary delay on the part of Johnson, went one day into the room where Johnson was sitting and abused him in the most liberal manner. Johnson heard him some time unmoved, but at last, losing all patience, he seized a huge folio and, aiming a blow at the bookseller's head succeeded in sending him sprawling to the floor. Osborne alarmed the family by his cries, but Johnson, placing his foot on his breast, would not let him stir until he had exposed him in that situation and then left him with this triumphant expression: "Lie there, thou son of dullness, ignorance and obscurity."—From Kearsley's "Anecdotes."

Money Panic.

"What was the worst money panic you ever saw?" asked one financier of another.

"The worst money panic I ever saw," was the reply, "was when a fifty cent piece rolled under the seat of a street car and seven different women claimed it."—Exchange.

Tyranny.

There are few minds to which tyranny is not delightful. Power is nothing but as it is felt, and the delight of superiority is proportionate to the resistance overcome.—Johnson.

ORDINANCE NO. 227.

An Ordinance Regulating the Running at Large of Vicious and Troublesome Dogs, Providing for Notice to the Owners or Harborers Thereof and Penalty for Failure to Impound, Put and Keep Under Leash Dogs Complained of.

Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Charleroi, Washington County, Pennsylvania, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same:

Section 1. From and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to permit the running at large, in the Borough of Charleroi, any dog; (1) owned or harbored by them, of known vicious habits or which shall be known to bite, run or bark at pedestrians, horses, carriages, street cars, automobiles, bicycles or other persons, animals or vehicles, using the public footways or highways; (2) which shall be known to injure property or trouble and annoy persons by upsetting garbage cans or otherwise.

Sec. 2. If any person shall make complaint to the Chief Burgess of the Borough that any person, firm or corporation, permits to run at large any dog, owned or harbored by them, which is prohibited to run at large in Section One of this ordinance, the said Burgess, upon being satisfied that the complaint is well founded, shall give notice or cause notice to be given to said person, firm or corporation, requiring that said dog be immediately impounded or put under leash. Upon failure of said person, firm or corporation to promptly impound such dog or dogs or to put the same under leash and to keep the same impounded or under leash thereafter, such person, firm or corporation shall be subject to a fine not exceeding Ten ($10.00) Dollars and not less than One ($1.00) Dollar for each offense, to be recovered as fines are by law recoverable.

Ordinance No. 213, providing for the muzzling of all dogs running at large and for the impounding and killing of all dogs not muzzled or confined as provided by said ordinance is hereby repealed.

It is hereby provided that Ordinance No. 72, relating to the licensing and muzzling of dogs, and the running at large of the same shall not be altered or affected by this ordinance, except to expressly re-enact Section Five of the same.

Hours of Rest.

One hour of rest as a rule, should be the same every night. It is not safe for even the most robust and healthy to violate the law of regularity in this matter The man or woman who retires and rises at irregular periods, varying from two to four or six hours, as many are accustomed to do, cannot enjoy good health or live long and happily. Every one should adopt a rule to retire at a certain hour and adhere to it as strictly as possible, never deviating from it except in emergencies.

Desperate Conscripts.

Conscription is not popular in the Turkish empire Mr. A G Affalo tells in "Regilding the Crescent" how he met at the little station of Sesched, between Jerusalem and the sea. a body of ferocious looking ruffians wearing handcuffs and under a strong guard—all deserters. "Some idea of the abhorrence in which these undisciplined tribesmen hold then military obligations may be gathered when it is mentioned that several of the party had actually burned out of their own eyes with quicklime so as to render themselves useless in the field."

Finances of Heroism.

A new light on heroism is shed by Dr. Henry Rundle in his little book, "With the Red Cross In the Franco-German War." "Those soldiers," he says, "who have the good fortune to return whole and healthy are, of course, the heroes of the family. One of our patients, a young French cavalry soldier, did not wish his friends to know of his safety. He thought that if kept in suspense for some little time his family would be so overjoyed at his return that their substantial tokens of welcome would be the greater."

CATHOLICS WIN FROM EPISCOPALS IN SIX INNINGS

Jupiter Pluvius took a hand in proceedings and stopped a crackerjack of a game that was getting better right along between the Catholics and Episcopals after a part of seven innings had been played July Fourth afternoon. Reverting to the sixth inning, made necessary because the seventh was not completed, the score favored the Catholics 2 to 0 and they were declared winners.

Whe nMontgomery let Newton's tap get away from him in the fourth events started. McGuire flied out. Fagula with a mighty willow hit one for three bases scoring Newton. Then he came home on Jenkins' mistake. Mossioux pasted one on the label for two bases but it was of no use. Score:

American and German Firemen.

A Hamburg fireman of distinction who had occasion to visit the United States some years ago returned full of admiration for the splendid way in which American fire companies usually respond to alarms and was of the opinion that the American companies were ready for action more promptly than those in Germany, because the individual units subordinated everything else to the point of leaving quarters at the earliest possible instant, to do which the American fireman at night would slide down the pole partially clad and was indifferent as to his appearance in riding to the scene of the fire so long as he was on the spot to meet the emergency. The European fireman, on the other hand, having had military training, would be inclined to avoid the pole and would walk down the stairs, devoting a few seconds to the adjustment of his garments, and would be prepared to start only when ready to appear before the public in regulation costume.—Consular Reports.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m! Play cards for money?"

"Emphatically no, sir"

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

GAME FORFEITED PRESBYTERIANS BY WASHINGTONS

In a game that was forfeited before it was played because of the non-appearance of the Washington Avenues with nine eligible men, the First Presbyterians won July Fourth morning [illegible] the score of 4 to 2 from the Washington Avenues. This they captured mainly by bunching hits in the first, second, fifth and sixth innings The Washington Avenues by hard work got one in the first and one in the sixth inning Score:

BASEBALL BINGLES

The distinctive feature of the morning's exhibition game was a tripple play engineered by Mitchell, McKay, and Miller, of the Washington Avenues Schmidt, first man up, for the First Presbyterians, was sent to first on a base on balls. Oller's sacrifice was handled cleanly by Stahlman, but Miller made a dismal muff of the play at second, the runner being safe. McGowan, in an attempt to advance the runners, popped up a little fly which Mitchell managed to get under. By a quick throw, the latter caught Oller before he could return to first, and Dr. McKay relayed the ball to Miller in ample time to head off Schmidt, who had already turned third base on the play. The tripple was certainly handled in big league style, and drew forth hearty applause.

* * *

It is understood that the Fourth afternoon game may be protested by the Episcopals. The point of argument lies in the fact that while at bat in the sixth inning Kuhn was called out for stepping out of his box while Cratty came in from third base Cratty's score was not counted

* * *

The Catholics had a new man on first base, McGuire, who is said to be a former player from the baseball center of Pricedale.

* * *

Dr. McKay got in the game and played first base for the Washington Avenues. The Doc used to be some player and if he can get in form will make them go some to pull anything away from him.

Practiced, but Not Perfect.

Jack—I'll be frank with you. You are not the first girl I've kissed by any means. Maud—And I'll be equally frank with you. You have a great deal to learn, even at that.—Boston Transcript.

Resolve not to be poor; whatever you have, spend less.—Dr. Johnson.

COLLEGIANS TO PLAY SATURDAY

Manager John McIlvaine Secured Good Baseball Team For Game Here

The Pittsburg Collegians headed by Dick Guy, the popular amateur sporting editor of the Pittsburg Gazette Times will come to Charleroi Saturday afternoon, and do battle with John McIlvaine's ballers at the ball ground To add that a good game is expected is superfluous.

The Pittsburg Collegians are composed of college and ex-college baseball stars who every summer tour the country under the tutelage of Manager Richard Guy. They have not appeared in Charleroi of recent years. The college players contain some mighty fast baseball material and the game they will put up to tetar down the colors of McIlvaine's Independents, will be worth while seeing. Dick Guy is quite well known in Charleroi.
